Sal Sirugo's Composition M-73 (1983) doesn't simply depict a tree; it transmits the same energy as a tree, the same unfettered branching and reaching, the same vitality and drive. It's part of a group show, Nature's Rhythm, at Snyder Fine Art in Manhattan, along with other works by the Woodstock painter, plus works by Milton Avery, Marsden Hartley, John Marin, Arthur Dove, and six others. The gallery's located at 588 Broadway and the show runs through July 6. For more info, call (212) 941-6860.
